

JetBlue to Offer Flights Between BWI Marshall Airport and Fort Lauderdale

Airline Grows Its Service at BWI

JetBlue Airways announced yesterday evening that it would add service between Baltimore/Washington International Thurgood Marshall Airport and Fort Lauderdale, Florida. The twice-daily round-trip flights are scheduled to begin in November 2015.

“JetBlue is an outstanding airline, widely recognized for its customer service and travel value,” said Paul J. Wiedefeld, Chief Executive Officer of BWI Marshall Airport. “This added service is great news for travelers in Maryland and the entire National Capital market. JetBlue is adding more choices and convenience for our travelers.”

JetBlue Airways first launched service at BWI Marshall in September 2009 with flights to Boston Logan International Airport.
